Written by Brian Breach

Renowned for their visionary approach to luxury design, Cochet Païs is making a bold entrance into South Florida's elite real estate scene. Founded in 2007 by cousins Yannick Cochet and Gregory Païs, the design studio has carved an international reputation for crafting breathtaking, high-end residences. Their seamless blend of artistic innovation and meticulous craftsmanship mirrors the precision of luxury automobile manufacturing—where every detail, from concept to execution, is treated with unwavering dedication.

Yannick Cochet, a self-taught creative force, drives the firm with relentless ambition, pushing the limits of design and execution. His rebellious spirit and pioneering mindset fuel Cochet Païs' ability to turn daring concepts into reality. Gregory Païs, a master of interior design, complements this vision, ensuring each project is both functional and exquisitely refined. Their shared commitment has resulted in extraordinary spaces across the globe, from the French Riviera to landmark locations worldwide.

As South Florida experiences a surge in luxury real estate, Cochet Païs arrives at a pivotal moment. The firm's expansion into Miami aligns with the city's demand for bespoke, ultra-luxury residences. Their integrated approach—leveraging in-house resources for seamless project execution—ensures an unparalleled standard of efficiency and quality.

By introducing their signature French touch to the region, Cochet Païs is poised to redefine South Florida's luxury landscape. Every project they undertake is not just a residence but an iconic living experience, crafted to stand the test of time.
